NORTH QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL
MANET 1973 VOL. I

The Child is father of the Man . . .
— But there's a Tree, of many, one,
A single Field which I have looked upon,
Both of them speak of something that is gone:
The Pansy at my feet
Doth the same tale repeat:
Whither is fled the visionary gleam?
Where is it now, the glory and the dream? . . .
Heaven lies about us in our infancy!
Shades of the prison-house begin to close
Upon the growing Boy,
But he
Beholds the light, and whence it flows,
He sees it in his joy;
Our noisy years seem moments in the being
Of the eternal Silence: truths that wake,
To perish never;
Which neither listlessness, nor mad endeavour,
Nor Man nor Boy,
Nor all that is at enmity with joy,
Can utterly abolish or destroy! . . .
Feel the gladness of May!
What though the radiance which was once so bright
Be now forever taken from my sight,
Though nothing can bring back the hour
Of splendor in the grass, of glory in the flower;
We will grieve not, rather find
Strength in what remains behind;

William Wordsworth

GOOCH BOOK

We must all learn to live together as brothers, or we all perish together as fools.

So its one more round for experience and I'm on the road again.

Travel from today to today, keeping yesterday in your mind, leaving room for tomorrow.

Everything has its beauty, but not everyone sees it.

We are not permitted to change the frame of our destiny, but what we put into it, is ours.

Now in this age of confusion, I have need of your company.

I want, by understanding myself, to understand others, I want to be all that I am capable of becoming.

Think of your own faults the first part of the night, when you are awake, and the faults of others, the latter part of the night when you are asleep.

The mind is restless, turbulent, strong and unyielding — as difficult to subdue as the wind.

The only solutions to the problems of mankind occur through the realization that survival for the individual must be obtained through the survival of all mankind.

Men use thought only to justify their wrongdoings and speech only to conceal their thoughts.

Let those who love turmoil, arm for turmoil; their very arming will bring it. And those who love peace, arm for peace — their disarming will hasten it.

The most I can do for my friend is simply to be his friend, if he knows that I am happy in loving him, he will want no other reward. Is not friendship divine in this.

In the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter and sharing of pleasures. For in the dew of little things the heart finds its morning and is refreshed.

If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music that he hears however measured or far away.

Rather than love, than money, than fame, give me truth.

And constancy lives in the realms above; and life is thorny and youth is vain and to be wroth with the one we love, doth work like madness on the brain.

One's real life is seldom the life one leads.

Knowledge can be communicated but not wisdom. One can live it, find it, be fortified by it, do wonders through it, but one cannot communicate or teach it.

In the end, nothing is said now that has not been said before.

How can I lose faith in the justice of life, when the dreams of those who sleep upon feathers are not more beautiful than the dreams of those who sleep upon the earth.

It is preoccupation with possession, more than anything else, that prevents me from living freely and nobly.

Today, well lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope.

See how the masses mill and swarm and troop and muster and assail: we could keep this planet warm by friction if the sun should fail.

If you were a bird and lived on high you'd lean on the wind when the wind came by you'd say to the wind when it took you away: that's where I wanted to go today.

There is no sun without shadow and it is essential to know the right.

What about you, what about me? Two years from now, where will we be?

Each of us gone our separate ways, but in the headlong passage of days.

I am not afraid of tomorrow. For I have seen yesterday and I love today.

We must welcome the future remembering that soon it will be the past, and we must respect the past knowing that was humanly possible.

Lord make me an instrument of thy peace, where there is hatred, let me sow love. Where there is injury — pardon.

Time it was and what a time it was, a time of innocence, a time of confidantes.

A map of the world that does not include Utopia is not worth glancing at.

Enlightenment is the realization of ignorance.

A great man is he who never loses his child's heart.

Although I must think of and plan for tomorrow, I cannot, I must not surrender for tomorrow all that I possess today.

“... Shall I go off to South America?
Shall I put out in my ship to sea?
and get in my cage and be lions and tigers? or — shall I be me?”

“Throw me a Hoodsie, will ya?”

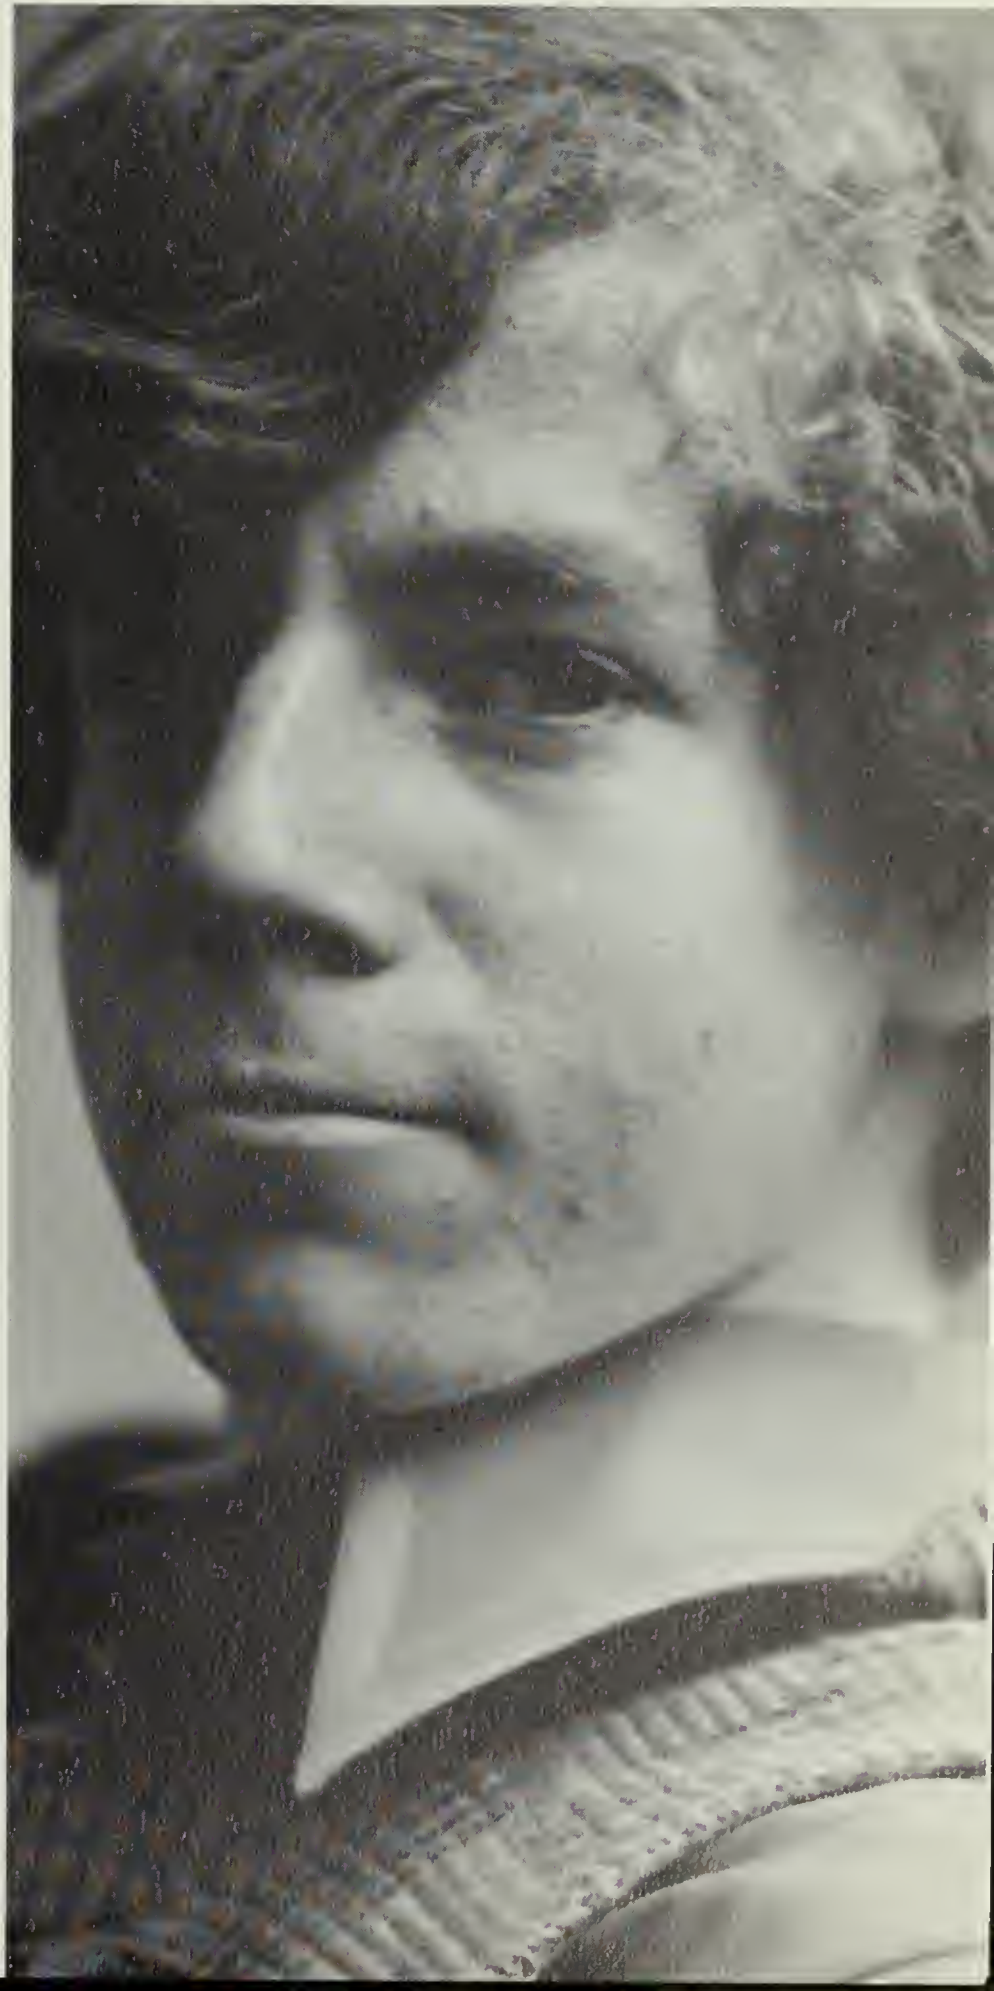

“Patt-a-cake ...
Patt-a-cake ...”

My Face —

As a beauty I am not a great star,
There are others more handsome, by far,
But my face — I don't mind it
For I am behind it,
It's the people in front get the jar!

The rack was an ancient torture device. A few replicas still exist today.

“Selma broke up with Rodney ... This is a recording.”

“Must be the only school that has vodka in its drinking water.”

"That cheerleader has a mean left jab."

"It is hard to tell a water balloon from a football."

"You wouldn't really pull that trigger, would you?"

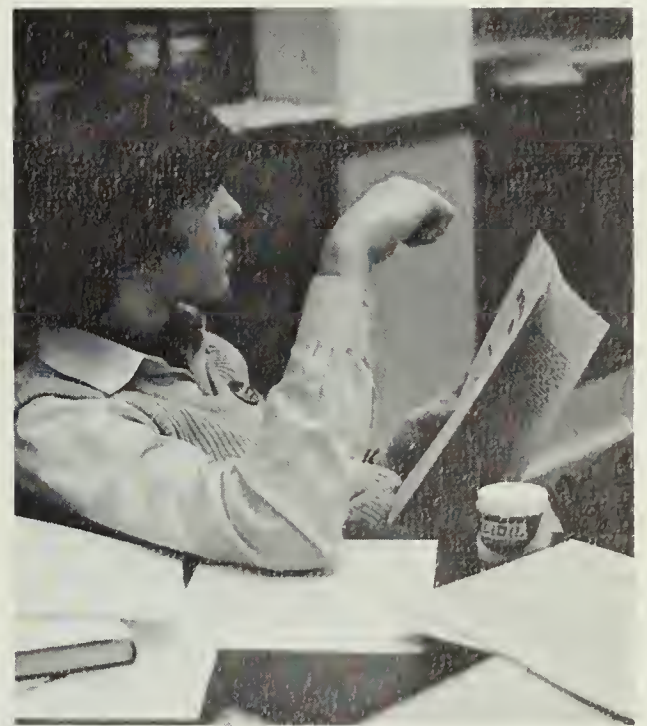

We were looking for America when the tricycle got a flat.

We march when he beats his drum
We dance when he sings.
We stake our joys and sorrows to play his game to the end.

"That's a great story — but the NORTH STAR was printed yesterday."

Every day a new picture is painted and framed, held up for an hour, in such lights as the Great Artist chooses, and then withdrawn,
and the curtain falls.

And then the sun goes down, and long the afterglow gives light.
And then the damask curtains glow along the western window.
And now the first star is lit, and I go home.

the more he gives it to others,
the more he has for his own.
